WITH IMPRESSIVE DESIGNER COLLABORATIONS AND A CHIC MINIMALUXE AESTHETIC, THIS BRAND'S PIECES ARE TRUE CLASSICS

You've almost definitely heard of Californian upscale furniture brand RH—its Cloud sofa, a highly desirable piece owned by the likes of Kendall Jenner and Naomi Watts, now has a cult status—but until recently, it's felt firmly American. With the unveiling of RHEngland, however—the brand moved into Aynho Park in Oxfordshire in June—its 100-collection-strong offering is more accessible than ever. And we couldn't be happier. Especially since it's unveiled a number of new pieces in collaboration with celebrated designers—think Francesco Crivellari, Oliver Oulton, Nicholas and Harrison Condos and the Van Thiels. The latter are behind Padua, a collection of pieces spanning dining chairs to daybeds all in smooth, sophisticated American oak; we have our eye on the round dining table, with a chunky cylindrical base and neat curved top that fosters conversation.
