

BAZAAR^{Harper's}

Margot Robbie Attends Milan Design Week in a Layered Four-Piece Armani Suit

Groutfit, anyone?

BY SOPHIE WANG PUBLISHED: APR 22, 2026 11:40 AM EDT

JACOPO RAULE // GETTY IMAGES

⌚ 2 MIN READ

The groutfit just got a little bit cooler. Heading to the Italian fashion capital for the 2026 Milan Design Week, Margot Robbie brought along her best art critic style. Elevated and professional while still a little off-kilter and funky, her look fit in perfectly amongst the sculptures.

April 22, 2026

Walking into an eye-catching, decadent neo-Renaissance palazzo for the opening of Restoration Hardware's new gallery, "RH Milan, the Gallery at Corso Venezia 56," Robbie was seen in an all-gray four-piece suit. Courtesy of Armani and pulled from the house's Fall 2026 collection, the ensemble was composed of an oversize blazer with structured shoulders and perfectly matched long slouchy trousers. Underneath, a soft billowing top peeked out from a cropped sweater vest—evoking the look of a silk scarf on top and exposed boxers below.

The Barbie star let her long blonde bob fall naturally, with her little wispy bangs kissing her eyebrows.

Once inside, she joined fellow guest Zoe Saldana, who wore a sheer long-sleeved Saint Laurent dress crafted from metallic golden lace. The piece was designed with a plunging neckline and high slit, and the Avatar actor wore it over sheer black tights and little strappy heels. Like Robbie, she carried a little black clutch.