

RH Milan, The Gallery

RH arrives in Milan: a seven-level destination for furniture and food and beverage.

by Editorial Staff — April 13, 2026

A 19th-century neo-Renaissance palace in the heart of Corso Venezia becomes a new international hub of design and style. RH debuts in Italy with RH Milan, The Gallery, a project that combines luxury retail and hospitality in a single immersive experience. The project marks the brand's Italian debut and consolidates its European expansion, following openings in cities such as Paris, Brussels, Madrid, and Munich. The goal is clear: to position Milan as a key global hub for the brand.

The building, constructed in 1880 by Giorgio Pellini, also responsible for the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele II, has been restored and reinterpreted to accommodate over 7,000 square meters spread across seven levels. Located between Porta Venezia and the Fashion District, in an urban context of significant historical and architectural value, the palace is part of an ongoing dialogue between past and present.

RH Milan, The Gallery

On the ground floor, the spaces welcome visitors with an Architecture and Design Library, conceived as a place of research and inspiration, flanked by a concierge service and access to an internal courtyard that leads to a rare private garden, inspired by Italian Renaissance models.

The lower level houses La Volta Restaurant & Bar, an evocative limestone space where art and gastronomy meet. The restaurant offers refined Italian cuisine—including pizzas, risottos, and traditional dishes—alongside an international selection and an extensive wine and cocktail list.

The upper floors are dedicated to the brand's collections, with a comprehensive offering ranging from RH Interiors to RH Modern and the global debut of RH Estates, a new concept that combines classic aesthetics and contemporary sensibilities in high-end furnishings and décor.

On the top floor, the RH Bar & Lounge offers an immersive and scenic experience, featuring light installations, Murano glass art, and spaces designed to showcase the brand's aesthetic universe. More than just a retail space, RH Milan is a cultural and sensorial destination, where furniture, art, architecture, and hospitality coexist in a single project. This opening reinforces Milan's role as an international design capital and confirms the growing hybridization of retail and experience.

April 13, 2026